CAL EFFECES .- The Colleen Bawn will be repeated to-night, and we can truly say that it is by far the most interesting and attractive drama that has been put upon he boards of the Louisville Theater for many seasons. We are truly glad to see an Irishman on the stage as he might rea sonably be supposed to be in his own country—a man with a whole coat to his back. The conventional stage Irishman has been for years a creature of rags and CIRCULARS, POSTERS CIRCULARS, POSTERS, f potato skins and whisky, whose sole CIRCULARS, POSTERS, supation seemed to be dancing a jig and CIRCULARS, POSTERS knocking down his most intimate friend with a cudgel. Mr. Collins represents CIRCULARS, POSTERS, the Irish peasant a man of infinite jest, to be sure with the national facility or making bulls, but manly, warm-hear ed, and a noble specimen of rustic hu nanity. The success of the drama, as fa as it depends upon the character of Miles, is due to the fact that Mr. Collins' Irishmar s a portrait, and not a caricature. Apart from individual truthfulness of characters orders. It is remarkably compact, well and all its incidents seem necessary to assist in producing the proper denouemen We hope to see the Colleen Bawn hold ssession of the stage for some nights to

The passage of certain resolutions concerning the state of the country in the Senate of Kentucky was referred to in our paper of Saturday.

Upon the adoption of the report, the HENTSVILLE Feb 1 1861 yeas and nays were as follows:

yeas and nays were as follows:
YEAS—Messrs, Alexander, Andrews, Barrick, Bruner, Chambers, Cosby, DeHaven, Denny, Fisk, Gilliss, Glenn, Haycraft, Jenkins, Johnson, Marshall, Pennebaker, Read, Rhea, Rousseau, Simpson, Taylor, Wait, Walker, Walton, and Whitaker—25.
NAYS—Messrs. Speaker, (Porter.) Anchony, Boles, Cissell, Davidson, Gibson, Grover, Grundy, Irvan, McBrayer, Prall, and Rust—12.
So the report was adopted.

dangers which on all sides threaten its very existence.

It is not my purpose, nor do I intend to consume unnecessarily the time of this body, by entering upon a detailed statement of the various causes which have conspired to bring about this alarming crisis, which threatens to engulf the country in ruin, and arrest for centuries, perhaps forever, the progress of civilization, of liberty, and of free institutions throughout the world.

Let it suffice that we are now in the South.

To arrest the progress of this revolution, and re-unite, if possible, all the States of this once proud and glorious Confederacy in the bonds of fraternal Union, under our common Constitution, is an object certainly which patriots should desire, and all enlightened statesmen strive to accomplish.
I take it for granted that such is the object of every Senstor upon this floor. And if I am not mistaken in this, then our object is a common one: and having a common ob-am not mistaken in this, then our object is a common one; and having a common object in view, there can properly be no difference of opinion among us, except as to the mode of accomplishing that object.

Kentucky can never consent to go out of the Union, and dissolve the relations which now exist between her and the Federal Government, until she has exhausted all the means consistent with her honor and a due regard for her rights, to redress the wrongs of which we complain within the Union. Two of the means calculated to effect that purpose we have provided we all so much desire—and that is, a Southern Convention, composed of delegates from all the slaveholding States.—There is no man, sir, of ordinary foresight, who can suppose for a moment that the seceding States will ever consent to join in Convention with the States composing the Northern section of this Confederacy, for the purpose of trying to effect a settlement of the difficulties which now conviction us. Unless this can be done are a settlement of the difficulties which now environ us. Unless this can be done, we fail to accomplish the desired object. The majority here have persistently opposed every proposition looking to a Southern Convention, and have reported a set of resolutions which amounts to nothing; resolutions which amounts to nothing; resolutions which have as indefinite and as uncertain, as to defining the position of Kentucky, as the nonsensical twaddle which has emanated from so many of the so-called Union meetings, which from time to time have been held throughout the State. He believed that Kentucky should speak contrary position by voting for the resolution as a whole. He would liked to have voted for some of the resolutions embraced in the series reported by the Select Committee, but that privilege had been denied han by the majority, and as he could not vote under the ruling of the Speaker for those he approved without, at the same time, voting for those which he did not approve of, he felt constrained to cast his vote against the whole.

Mr. PRALL, in casting his vote, said that he heartily approved of the first four resolutions, except that he would make a slight modification of the fourth, providing for additional action in the direction contemplated by a resolution he had heretofore offered for the appointment of Commissioners to the States to ask them to unite with us in an earnest effort to save the Union. He was opposed to the fifth resolution, because he thought that the contingencies intended to be provided for by the re-assembling of the Legislature were better met in the resolution he offered, as one of the Committee on Federal Relations. The call of the previous question had cat him off from any power to modify the resolutions or to vote upon them separately. He was compelled, therefore, to vote no, as a contrary vote would involve an affirmation of everything contained in all the resolutions, but wished it distinctly understood that he cordially indorsed and sustained the patriotic sentiment announced in the first four resolutions, and only disapproved of the policy provided for in the fifth.

I must say, sir, that in the resolutions now before us, with those which we have heretofore passed, we have everything that I contended for, and all that I desire.

Mr. RHEA said:

Mr. SPEAKER: Before casting my vote I desire to make a word of explanation. It is the first time since I have occupied a seat on the floor of this chamber that I have felt called on so to do. The extraordinary course pursued this morning by stifling debate, and prohibiting amendments to the acries of resolutions through the instrumentality of the previous question is to be regretted. Indeed, this course reates much surprise in my mind when I take into consideration the importance of our action. Especially is this t.a. case when I recollect the granticiation made the other day on this floor, by some of the advocates of this proposition, that it was intended that Senators should show "their hands." May I be permitted now to ask, was such determination and desire an earnest one when expressed? If so, why has all opportunity for amendment been cut off? I regret the determination of the majority on such a course.

In many points of view these resolutions are not objectionable. To some of them on such a course.

In many points of view these resolutions are not objectionable. To some of them I heartily respond; others are not as expressive as I could desire there, and as I would have endeavored to make them, had opportunity been allowed. The true position of Kentacky, in my judgment, is misunderstood and misconstrued both North and South. This is an hour of darkness and gloom in the nation's history; what is to be gloom in the nation's history; what is to be the result is known only to the future. would have Kentucky proclaim her great desire for peace and unity. 4 which not to prevent her from assuming the position of mediator, in restoring tranquility instead of the confusion and alarm that now per-vades the land. It is right she should exnaust every honorable effort to produce armony and good will among all the States of the Confederacy, and save from wreck, f possible, the Federal Constitution. I if possible, the Federal Constitution. I am willing to second every effort which contemplates so noble a work. Feeling thus, Mr. Speaker, I have not determined that the next step should be the calling by this Legislature of a State Convenion; still I am for going a step further than these resolutions provide. I am for taking such action as will place Kentucky right before both sections of the Confederacy. I desire to proclaim in language that cannot be minunderstood, that if all effort shall fail in restoring peace and tranquility to the country, and securing constitutional guarantees for the protection of the rights and interests of the Slave States of the Union, that our sympathics are with the

and interests of the Slave States of the Union, that our sympathies are with the South, and we will with them make a common cause. If our overtures are all disregarded and our propositions for adjustment are all rejected, what other course can we take in honor and justice to ourselves?

But. Mr. Speaker, I am denied making the effort to engraft such a sentiment in the resolutions. I know full well, from the indications manifested, that these resolutions are the most the Senate is now willing to adopt, and whilst I cannot get all that I desire embodied in them, yet approving much that they contain, and protesting against the indecent haste with which they are being pressed through, as well as the gag which has been applied with reference to their discussion, I will cast my vote in the affirmative.

my sentiment, and I cannot vote it. I know that force cannot be used against a Stote, you can only act against the people of a State. In that view the resolution amounts to nothing; because we protest against doing what it is impossible to do. We are against coercing or using force against a shadow. But I wish to say a word of what the resolution seems to assert. In the late Presidential canvass I stood with thousands of true and patriotic men on a platform I then thought sound, "The Union, the Constitution, and the Enforcement of the Laws." I stood on that platform with the Senator from Logan, who, for reasons unknown to me, has left it. ment of the Laws. "I stood on that plat-form with the Senator from Logan, who, for reasons unknown to me, has left it. I stand there still; I shall stand there while there is any Union to love, or Constitution to protect, or laws to enforce—nothing has occurred to change my position. I am for the enforcement of the laws all over this land, North and South; if a slave escape from his owner to a Free State, I hold it the duty of the General Government to re-turn him to the claimant at every hazard and at any sacrifice, not alone for the value of the slave, but to enforce the laws of a great nation, to show to the world that we have a Government able and willing to protect the rights of its citizens under the Constitution and within the Union. No Senator here will dispute the correctness of that position. It is correct. Then change the place. Come to a Slave State, what shall be the rule there? Shall we enforce the laws? And why not? Certailly, it is impracticable to enforce many of them; but impracticable to enforce many of them; but I speak of what may be done rightfully, peacefully, without force or violence, unless those opposed to the laws and set themselves upagainst the laws of the country determine otherwise.

The General Government holds for the benefit of the whole people, forts, arsenals, shipping, and other property. Let an effort be made to take and seize that property without right and against the law—let those who set themselves up against the people and against the laws attempt by violence and bloodshed to take possession of this property for revolutionary purposes, what is the duty of the Government? Shall it use no force? Shall it repel no attacks made upon this property of the people? Shall it defend the flag of the nation? or shall it submit to all this violence, all these outrages and indignities? And why in the South more than the North shall these things be? will any one inform me? There is no reason for it. An appeal to sectional prejudices is no answer for me. Let the laws, sir, be everywhere enforced, and we need have no such prejudices.

But let me be understood: Lam utterly

But let me be understood: I am utterly opposed to the invasion of the soil of any State by the General Government. I am equally opposed to any aggressive acts to wards the people of a seceding State by that Government, as impolitic and unwise. Let the people of those States have their safety in their own hands; leave it with them to fight or be still. But if agains law and right they should, for instance, as sault Fort Sunter, now commanded by a callant son of our own Kentucky; if these sault Fort Sunter, now commanded by a gallant son of our own Kentucky; if they should fire on the flag of their country and butcher those who defend it, what their shall be done? Let those who say no force should be used under any circumstances, answerne? A government thus unable or an willing to defend itself, is not worth preserving.

But I have said enough. The resolution referred to, means simply nothing; the others meet my hearty approbation.

I am satisfied I have spoken the sentiments of my constituents, and they will indorse every word I have uttered; and I know that my colleague (Col. Pennebaker.) will sustain me in the position I have coken. I vote ave.

Mr. SPEAKER: I rise to make an explanation. I am sorry that the dominant amount of the proper is a sustain. I am sorry that the dominant amount is an explanation. I am sorry that the dominant amount is a sustain the proper is a question, to put the gag upon the mouths of the Representatives or a free people. That motion and action by the majority is unjustifiable, il liberal, and altogether out of the ordinary laws of parliamentary usage and courtesy. But, so it is, the gag has been placed upon our mouths, and all that has been left me is a mere explanation of my vote. The 3d resolution is nothing but one offered by myself; the Senator from Logan and the Senator from Bourbon, at an early day in the session, so weakened it as to mean nothing; its vitality has been extracted from it. Yet, being unable to do better, if I had to vote on it as a single proposition, would vote for it. But, when I am compelled to indorse the sentiments in the whole, I cannot do it. I had hoped that Kentucky would have placed herself in a hold and proud position; but these resolutions, if passed, destroy her character for manliness and independence, and place her, through this General Assembly, ma position which will be scorned by her gallant and daring sons. Therefore, as a whole, I cannot indorse, and must vote against them, and from party caucuses and party cliques, I, for one, intend to appeal to the liberality and magnanimity of a free and enlightened people.

Mr. DelHAVEN said:

I am obliged to the Senate for the coursesy exterded to me. I will show, I hope tesy extended to me. I will show, I hope, a proper appreciation of their kindness by trespassing but little on their patience. Most of the resolutions presented by the Committee meet my hearty approbation. There is one leading, and to my mind controlling thought, however, that is not presented as it ought to be. That is, that after exhausting all honorable means for adjustment, that we intend to take then such action as the interests of Kentucky. such action as the interests of Kentucky demand. We might have remained in the Union as it was, had the other Slave States stood manfully by our side, and fought for cur signts in the Union and under the Constitution. Their secession, however, has left us at the mercy of a Northern majority and one own safety now discanding the control of the constitution. has left us at the mercy of a Novthern has jority, and our own safety now disamnds that we should have additional guarantees. The events of the past few days, and the tidings from Washington, so unfavorable to a peaceable surrender of Fort Sumter, have brought about a settled conviction that we have warm work to encounter.—The question is not now "Will Fort Sumter be attacked?" but, "When will the attack commence?" The note of warlike preparation has not ceased during the progress of the parley between the two Governments, and the fortifications of the harbor, overwhich the Palmettoflag floats, have been strengthered and brought to a ndition of readness for immediate ac-

Fori Moultrie, under the skilful direction of Major Ripley, with his black brigade of picks and shovels, has thrown up breastworks and mounted heavy guns to gach as extent that the appearance of the fort has changed, and has almost attained its utmost state of efficiency. Huge heaps of sand-bags surmount the ramparts, faced with palmetto logs and covered with hides, from the embrasures of which the grin dogs of war protrude their muzzles, nine of them levelled direct at Fort Suntier. What is conceived to be the weakest point in the granite mass has been selected as the mark of which all these cannon are pointed, and they will give the work of the mason a severe test. The interior of the fortal so presents a most warlike aspect. The over for hot shot is in readiness, like you, steam fire engines, for firing up at any moment, and all the equipments for carnage piled up around the gun carriar cs. The magazine has been buried in a cavern of sandbags, and is believed to be beyond the reach of shot or shell. Every arrangement has been made not only for the protection of the pea, but for receiving the balls of Sungler with the least possible damage.

ANXIOES FOR A FIGHT.

The military are anxious for the fight to commence, as having come to Charleston to fight, they are indisposed to go home without smelling powder. They are most impatient at the delay, and the stormy and unpletant weather has rendered their military duties very severe and irksome. At Morria Island three large Columbiads have been mounted and eutrenched in sand-bags with a 42-pounder and a fornaidable mortar. The batteries at Fost Johnson are also becoming quite formidable, and it is intended to keep up a fire on Sumier from these three forts for twenty-four hours before an attempt is made to assault the stronghold of Uncia Sam. ed to believe that fanaticism was confined to a few—that the masses of the Northern people were free from personal animosity towards us, and that even the politicians were only using the slavery question as a hobby to obtain power, and the consequent control of Federal patronage, without any serious intention of interfering with our rights of property. The election of Lincoln, and the overwhelming defeat of succonservative statesmen as Bell and Douglas did not entirely dispel the delusion.—There was still a lingering hope that existing causes of dissatisfaction would be removed, and that we should march on in the pathway of nations united, prosperons and happy. But the secession of South Carolina was a touchstone too severe for the patriotism of the North. When that impetuous and sensitive, but chivalrous and high-toned people adopted their ordinance, if they had been met in a spirit of kindiy forbearance—if instead of threats of coercion they had been treated to offers of concessions and guarantees such as would have been alike honorable and glorious when tendered by the strong to the weak—if the compromise offered by your venerable statesman, Mr. Crittenden, had been promptly accepted, a settlement might even then have been effected—not another State would have followed the example of South Carolina, and that single wanderer would have been again gathered beneath the protecting folds of the national banner.

Concession and conciliation was the Concession and conciliation was the obvious policy, as it ought to have been the natural impulse of men of kindred blood, who looked back to a common history, and forward to a common destiny; but the idea of concession and conciliation has not yet penetrated the Northern mind. Submission without terms, or death by the halter, are the only alternatives which have up to this hour been presented to us. With a people whose minds and judgments are so perverted, and whose affections are so little to be relied upon, a further union is impossible. Slowly and reluctantly this conviction has been allowed to grow up impossible. Slowly and reductantly this conviction has been allowed to grow up within me. No one ever clung to the Union of my affections was one of love, not of fear, and when the alternative is presented to me of unconditional submission to a hostile faction, or death upon the gibbet, I feel an irresistible impulse to answer that there is yet a third alternative, which is always in a brave man's reach—the alternative of dying with arms in his hands, and staining the field on which he falls with other blood than his own.

Alabama has been forced into her present position by the uncompromising spirit which has been exhibited throughout the North. Three months ago not one-fourth of the people were secessionists. One month ago there was barely a majority in favor of severing our connection with the North. To-day nine-tenths of them sustain the action of the Convention, and before the 4th of March there will not be one man in a thousand to raise his voice against it. Of this there cannot be a shadow of a doubt.

it. Of this there cannot be a shadow of a doubt.

I look for Kentucky to move more slowly, but I know what she must do in the end. She cannot stand by and witness the murder of her own children without raising her strong arm in their defense. The North will make no concessions. They have derided the warnings of Crittenden. They will continue to spurn every offer of mediation, and leave you at last the choice of emanipating your slaves and assisting to fight their battles, or of combining with us. Too much of my own blood is Kentucky blood to allow me to doubt what your choice will be. The Government will attempt coercion. This question has gone beyond the point at which a peaceful solution was possible. War, in my judgment, is inevitable, and in such a war there can be no neutral States upon the North American Continent.

JERE. CLEMENS. BLANTON DUNCAN, Esq. CRUEL DESERTION OF A TOUNG GIRL.—
Two weeks ago a heartless wretch brought to this city a young and lovely girl, and, under pretext of placing her in a private boarding-house, conveyed her to a house of prostitution. Here she met a gentleman to whom she related that her father was a resident of Mobile, and that the man who accompanied her to this city had, by fattery and promises of marriage, accomplished her ruin. Together they fled from Mobile, and, arriving in this city, the black-hearted scoundrel abandoned her to a fate a thousand times worse than death. The girl was handsome, and, more than this, was cultured, her manners denoting that she had moved high in the social circle.

The gentleman who heard the story was one not easily deceived, and immediately took an interest in the girl's welfare. She begged him to save her from the abyss over which she hung in such frightful suspense, and restore her to her friends. He did so, and on Tuesday morning last she was placed in charge of a gentleman en route for New Orleans, and is now probably at home, received as an erring but a loved daughter.—{Cincinnati Enquirer.

Facts vs. Theories.

Our people are eminently practical. They deal in facts rather than theories. They are decidedly utilitarian in their ideas, habits, and customs.

Not yet degenerated from the standard of physical, moral, and mental excellence of the men of the last century, they treat life as a reality, and meet the difficulties they must needs encounter with the courage of real heroes and a spirit that knows no such word as fail. They are not afraid to look danger in the face, and never shrink from the performance of a duty merely because its discharge may be attended with

It is a fact, that those believing and feeling thus have been in a majority in a number of the States of the Union for several years; and that having the power in these States, they have in every manner possible interfered with the rights and interests of the Slaveholding States and of their citizens.

It is a fact, that the people of such States, not satisfied with the indirect attacks on slavery which would not have been in conflict with the letter of the Constitution, have openly, frequently, and persistently violated the plainest provisions of that instrument to accomplish their pur-

It is a fact, that the party representing at length obtained such political power as to secure the possession of the Federal Government, which they are pledged to use, not to protect, but to destroy the property of a large portion of the people. It is a fact, that this party has, through the medium of the State Governments committed many and grievous wrongs on the people of the South, and are deter mined and committed, through the Federal Government, to repeat these wrongs on a larger scale, and to secure their objects by the usurpation of powers that must destroy the liberties of the people. It is a fact, that, in consequence of the facts above stated, and others of a similar character, not enumerated, a number of the States in the Union have become con vinced that they cannot maintain their liberties, retain their independence, protect the rights of their citizens in the withdrawn from the Confederacy, and proclaimed themselves free and indepenpent States.

It is a fact, that several other States have indicated unmistakably their intention to follow the example already set by Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina, Florida, and Georgia, in seceding from the Union It is a serious and solemn fact, that civil war is threatened, and appears now inevitable, growing out of the causes to which we have referred.

It is a fact, that, if civil strife and long and bloody war follow in the train of the mighty events now on us, Kentucky cannot, by any possibility, escape being in-volved—that she must fight, either for the North against the South, or with the South against the North: this is inevitable. These are a few of the facts now press ing themselves on the attention of the people of this State particularly-facts which are certified to by every telegraphic dispatch, and proved by the concurrent testimony of every witness whose voice is heard by the public. These are facts which every American which no American citizen can on his honor and his conscience deny. It becomes the people of Kentucky to think of them and prepare to meet the issues arising from them, whether of peace Theories of government, political principles, constitutional constitutions, however plausible or sound they may be, will Learned lawyers, grave and careworn statesmen, aged and venerable patriots may demonstrate the unsoundness of the doctrine of secession, and prove the duty of maintaining the Union by force, if crrors so serious admit of such a result, but the facts, stubborn things, are not affected by the argument : secession, right or wrong, has taken place; and coercion, whether a duty or a crime, is impossible

Then what will the people of Kentucky do? Will they ignore these facts? Do they think it possible to avoid the consequences of the great events now transpiring around them, by pretending to never have heard

Party leaders might have prevented much evil that has been wrought; but they cannot recall the past; that is impossible. A few months ago political managers sought to accomplish a particular end by denouncing, not those who desired disunion, but those who had the honesty and guarantees, the political ties that connect us with the North should be severed." In courage to tell the people what would hapthe event of dissolution, the meeting repen in a certain event, as Disunionists: solved that "it was necessary to form a part of the Southern Confederacy;" inthe falsehood did not secure the success of those who used it; nor did their loud demonstrations for the Union, evaporating, not in deeds, but in words, save the Contremity. The meeting further declared it to be the duty of the Legislature to exstitution and preserve the Confederacy. If those who got up Union meetings and press "disapprobation of the doctrine of coercion in the strongest terms;" and also bumcombe displays within the first thirty days after Lincoln's election had taken half the pains to unite the South in a demand for their rights under the Constitution, the North would have done justice and the Union would have been saved: bu they loved party better than their country and for party purposes they pursued a course that paralyzed the true friends of the Union, and strengthened the arms of its destroyers. Upon their head, where it belongs, rest the blame! Now, the question comes up, Will th people of the State take a calm view of things as they are? Will our fellow-cit s reflect that the Union is dissolved ?-Will they consider that six States are gone, never to return? Will they remember that man cannot cover what God would reveal"-that what has taken place cannot be hid? Do they approve the course of their representatives, who argue that se cession is an error, and, convinced by their own logic, refuse to recognize a fact which your safety requires should be seen and acted on? Will they sit silently by while their peace, safety, liberty, and hap piness are sacrificed by political charla-ns on the altar of a favorite dogma? What we want of our representatives and public men, is efficient and decisive action based on facts, not elaborate speeches and cautiously worded resolutions in cluckda-tion of new or old themes.

We want those who for the present have charge of our interests and our honor and our safety to act with reference to what has been and now is, not to what should be. Can she (Kentucky) hold together States that have become alienated in feeling, and restore our proud nationality?—[Journal. Kentucky has certainly not succeeded very well so far in holding them together.

From present appearances, it will be about as much as she can do to hold herself to-After all the talk about forced loans in South Carolina, it turns out that n man has yet paid as much to forward Secession as was forced from many of our citizens to pay for the torchlight procession, or for the flag they tried to get for the Court House. The great difficulty that has been in he way of Kentucky's saving the Union is that she could get neither the North nor the South to join her in any of the plans

If even the remnant of the Union is saved, it must be done this week. The time is up now, but a few days of grace

We regret to know that there is one man in Kentucky who has the hardihood to avow himself a Coercionist. Yet there is one-a State Senator-from whom we expected something better. We mean Capt. L. H. Rousseau, of Louisville. He speaks his sentiments with great boldness and the least possible discretion. His po sition is anomalous for a Kentuckian, and contrasts curiously with that of our brave

They had uttered their protest through Mr. Lincoln's chief Minister, who had, from his place in the Senate, counseled his people to fight for the Union as a last resort. Fight with whon? With our brethren of the South. "By the living God," said the speaker, "if the Administration shall dare to bring its Black Republican cohorts to the banks of the Susquebanna for such a purpose, that river shall run red with blood before the first man of them should cross it." What is thought of the Legislature— Threatened Secession of Southern Kentucky. The Attenued Secession of Southern Kentucky.

The Hickman Courier has the following: The Kentucky Legislature has not, and is not, doing a thing towards the adjustment of our national difficulties. Better, far better for the State, that this Legislature had never been convened, than that it should thus mock the pride and wishes of the citizens of Kentucky. We know not what are the feelings of the citizens of the upper portion of Kentucky, but we can not believe that their representatives are reflecting their feelings in the present Legislature. Certain we are, that Southern Kentucky feels humiliated at the present proceedings, and if the State does not afford some redress, and that too quickly, Southern Kentucky will per force link her destiny with that of chivalrous Tennessec.—Wild as the assertion may appear, thousands of hearts have long anxiously favored such a transfer. Only a State pride separate us now, when that is wantonly abused by those who should adorn it, where is the link that binds us? Miscellancous.

HAMMONTON, N. J., May 7, 1860.

Dr. Brandreh:—Dear Sir—I have long wanted to write to you and express my gratitude for the beneficial effects that have been experienced in vy own family, and in hundreds, aye, thousands of others, by the use of Brandreth's Pills. The first year my friend Brockway sold your pills in Boston, 1888, I was then in a declining state of health, and my friends as well as myself supposed that my earthly voyage would soon terminate. Mr. Brockway urged me to take the Brandreth's Pills, but having used so much medicine with no good effect, I was more inclined to let nature take its course, and calmly submit to my fate. Mr. B. offered to give me one dozen boxes if I would take them as prescribed. By this time I saw he had great faith in them, and I finally consented to take them, but not as a sfit. I went home, and went at it most hopelessly. After taking one box I began to feel better. Well, sir, when I had used up my treelye boxes I was a well, healthy man—my weight having gone from 131 pounds up to 182 pounds. I then ordered a supply, and between that time and the present I reta'led three thousand dollars worth of these invaluable Pills, and an quite surethal I have hese invaluable Pills, and am quite sure that I have

OFFICE LOUISVILLE COURIER. TUESDAY EVEN'G, Feb. 5, 1861. Tuesday Even'6, Feb. 5, 1861. In financial circles we have no change of importance to notice. The demand continues about equal to the supply, and in all cases where first class paper was offered it met with a ready supply. Uncurrent money is quiet, with bat little offering, and we have no change to note in quotations. Exchange remains the same as yesterday.

and we have no change to note in quotations. Exchange remains the same as yesterday.

The general market is rather quiet today, with but a small amount of business doing. Flour was dull, and prices, if anything, were rather lower, with some disposition manifested on the part of holders to realize. The sales to-day were fair at $4 50@$5 50 for superfine to fancy family brands. Wheat is firm, with a small demand, though it was as large as the receipts. The sales to-day were made at $1@$1 10 for prime red to choice white. The better qualities are in demand, and will readily sell at our quotations. The de-readily sell at our quotations. The demand for corn was only moderate, with small sales at yesterday's quotatious. Oats are quiet and unchanged. Whisky quiet at 14@14\forage corners firm, with a good demand for home communication. Groceries firm, with a good demand for home consumption.

The provision market continues weak, with a strong disposition manifested on the part of sellers to realize at the present quotations. Buyers are contending for a still further decline, but sellers will admit of no further decline, We quote the market dull and drooping at $17.25. Bacon was quiet, but firm, at 7% c for shoulders, 10c for rib, 10% c for clear rib, and 11e for clear sides. The demand for bacon takes it away about as fast as made, so the market remains firm. Bulk meats are quiet and unchanged. There is nothing doing in lard.

There is no change of special importance in the provision market. The offerings of mess pork and bulk meat are large, and the demand quite moderate. Bacon is not out of smoke to a large extent, and the orders take about all that is offering. The sales comprised 200 hlds at 7½¢, 9½¢, and 10½¢ for shoulders, rib sides, and clear sides. Bulk meats are held at 6½¢, 8½¢, and 8½¢ for shoulders and sides, packed. Prime tierce lard sold at 9½¢ for city. Country may be quoted at 9½¢. The shipments for the week were large, comprising 3.726 bbls and 1,442 kegs lard: 1,726 hlds and 941 tierces bulk meat and bacon, 9,322 bbls and 2,121 boxes pork. One-third of the bacon and nearly the whole of the barrel pork went to New Orleans.

SECESSION OF TEXAS

THE SOUTHERN CONGRESS! Hon. Howell Cobb, President!

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 5 .- The Custon House was opened yesterday under the Government of Louisiana. A rumor reached this city last night that the Convention in Texas passed the Ordinance of Secession by 154 to 6. The seniment of uniting Texas in a Southern Confederacy is represented to be largely in the ascendant.

The Southern Congress. MONTGOMERY, ALA., Feb. 4.—The Con-ention met at noon. B. W. Barnwell was-hosen temporary chairman. An impres-ve prayer was offered by Rev. Basil Mantance. B. R. Curtis and J. L. Stevenson were the principal speakers. A letter was read from Mr. Everett stating that Congress was unable to heal the breach, as the inembers were bound by party ties, and the only alternative was Union or a bloody strife. The letter concludes thus: Let the cry ring out from Fanculi Hall, "The Union, it must and shall be preserved." Resolutions of attachment to the Union were adopted, approving the recent speeches of Seward and Adams, appealing to Virginia and the other Border States to remain faithful to the call of patriotic duty; conceding the equal rights of all the States in the common Territory, and approving of a compromise on the basis of the Crittenden resolutions. On motion of R. R. Rhett, Howell Cobb ras selected for permanent President by colamation, and Johnson J. Hooper, See ctary.

All the delegates were present except Mr. Morton, of Florida.
After preliminary business was attended to, the Convention adjourned until to-mor-

Mr. WIGFALL offered a resolution in-quiring of the Pressdent where troops vere concentrated in this District. Mr. PEARCE advocated the bill, which then passed.

The President's Message came up.
Mr. JOHNSON, of Tennessee, made a speech supporting his former position against secession, and defending himsel from the attack made in consequence o his saying he had struck trenson a blow and the parameters of the first trenson as the manufacture of the struck trenson as th and the men engaged in it being traitors felt the blow. He said the grief yesterday in the Senate was well played, and was got up to order, but whether the anxious mourners were well prepared for the occasion, he could not say. He then reviewed the different points of Mr. Raylemin's he different points of Mr. Benjami He said the United States bought Louis ma and pail for her, and then we admitted er into the Union. He asked if there wan my wrong or oppression then? Was then my wrong at the battle of New Orleans any wrong or oppression then? Was there any wrong at the battle of New Orleans, when Kentucky, who, thank God, stands firm to-day, and Tennessee, who he hoped would stand with her, went out to help and save the city from Lord Packenham? Is the protection to sugar another wrong?—Mr. Johnson continued at some length with great earnestness, taking the ground that Louisiana had no right to leave the Union or to take possession of the public property without the consent of the rest. There is no need of going beyond the Constitution to discover what is treason, and treason ought to be crushed North and South, and traitors should meet with tralious!

House.—Mr. TAYLOR sent to the Clerk the Louisiana secession ordinance, which was read. He said the act which it was his purpose to perform in withdrawing from this assembly, in obedience to the will of the people of his State, was one of no ordinary occurrence. The spectacle was now exhibited of seeing the Representatives of the States, delegation after delegation, withdrawing from Congress, from the legislative assembly of the country, destined, under Providence, to be the greatest the world had ever seen. We are now witnessing the dissolution of a mighty form of government, and the secession of State after State from the Union. Differences of opinion have caused these results, owing to a change in the relative condition of the two sections. A number of the Southern States have arrived at the conclusion that they can no longer remain members of this Union unless changes be made in the constitutional law, and the Constitution be restored to its own original spirit.

Mr. TAYLOR, of Louislana, argued against coercive measures, and said the manufacturers were dependent on the South for cotton, and it was for the interest of trade, that, if a separation took place, it should be peaceable.

Mr. SICKLES asked if he did not consider war already inaugurated by the seizure of the United States Mint and other property by Louisiana? and if the protective measures adopted by the Government were not essential to the honor and rights of the country?

Mr. TAYLOR replied that it was the duty of Louisiana to protect herself by taking possession of the forts, &c.

Mr. SICKLES asponents to a member of the House.

Mr. JOHN COCHRANE hoped the gentleman now taking his tarewell would not here are already and the states Mint and other property by Louisians and a member of the House. Laid on the table. Adjourned.

Mr. SPINNER rose to a point of order. The gentleman was not a member of the House.

Mr. JOHN COCHRANE hoped the gentleman now taking his farewell would not be interrupted.

Mr. TAYLOR repeated that on the first attack on the South, the white people there would arm to the rescue, including Virginia, North Carolina, and Tennessee, and civil war would be the result. He then bade the House farewell.

Mr. BOULIGNY, of Louisiana, made an explanation that he had not received official notice of the passage of the ordinance of secession in Louisiana. He was not elected by the Convention and should not be governed by their action. He was the only member elected as an American Union man, and to this principle he should stand forever. When I came here I took the oath to maintain the Constitution of the United States. Does that mean Union of the States? By that eath I shall stand. Whenever my lumediate constituents demand me to withdraw from this House, their wishes shall be compiled with. I shall, however, not only withdraw, but resign my seat; but before I do so I shall continue to be a Union man, and stand under the flag of the country that gave me birth. The object of the meeting being stated by Mr. Theodore Thompson, it was motioned that a committee of Arguan and others have telegrapeed to Montgomery urging the appointment of Alexander H. Stephens as provisional President of the Southern Confederacy in order to conciliate the Southern conservatives. son, it was motioned that a committee of seven be appointed to draft resolutions, when the following persons were selected: J. C. Barnett, A. J. Fleming, R. L. Threl-keld, Esq., Theodore Thompson, W. T. Paden, M. M. Jeffries, and J. P. Bruster, Esq. They retired, and, after a short time, reported the following preamble and reso-lutions: The nomination of Judge Pettit for adge of the District of Kansas has been etermined upon.
Secretary of State Black will probably oon be nominated as Associate Justice of he Supreme Court in place of Justice baniel, deceased.

WHEREAS, A crisis has at length arrived Whereas, A crisis has at length arrived when acquiescence in the existing condition of things ceases to be loyal and patriotic, and sound conservatism demands a revision of the constitutional relations of Kentucky with the sister States of the Union for the purpose of providing more effectual guarantees of her rights; and whereas, we recognize as the chief source of our evils the anti-slavery sentiments of the North, which deny to the Southern States their rights in the common Tearitories, nullify, by legislative enactments, the Fugitive Slave Law, poison the schools, the press, the literature, and, to some extent, the administration of justice; therefore—

Resolved. That we deem it no longer Resolved. That we deem it no longer compatible with the safety of this State or of the South to endure these assaults on their rights, and it is now evident that we cannot maintain our rights in the Union, it behooves us, as a Southern people, to look elsewhere for safety.

Resolved, That our members of the Legislature be instructed to favor an immediate call of a State Convention for the purpose of considering and adopting such measures as are necessary to secure the rights of our State, and to appropriate—dollars to purchase arms and munitions of war, with which to protect our lives and homes against any and all aggressions or servile insurrections.

Resolved, That we reprobate in the strongest terms as wholly unjustifiable any attempt on the part of the Federal Government to coeree the seceding States, and we do solemnly declare we will oppose a Northern army crossing any part of our state for that purpose.

Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting that we encourage the raising of of a company of Minute Men for the protection of the citizens of this State and Southern rights generally.

Resolved, That we recommend to the President of the United States that, if he has the power to use the Federal army and navy for coercion, that he orders them to those Northern States that have nullified the Fugitive Slave Law, and coerce them to those Northern States that have nullified the Fugitive Slave Law, and coerce them to those Northern States that have nullified the Fugitive Slave Law, and coerce them to those Northern States that have nullified the Fugitive Slave Law, and coerce them to those Northern States that have nullified the Fugitive Slave Law, and coerce them to those Northern States that have nullified the Fugitive Slave Law, and coerce them and the sum of the Resolved, That we deem it no longer

[From the London Times, Jan. 8.]

Yesterday morning a terrible encounter took place at Astley's Amphithenter. An undergroom named Smith was literally throttled to death by one of the lions which play so prominent a part in the holiday entertainments at that favorite place of amusennent. The lions, three in number, are confined in a cage at the back of the stage. When the night-watchman left the theater yesterday morning, a few minutes before 7, he reported "ail right." Shortly afterward Smith, the deceased, entered the place and found the lions prowling about. They had torn offa heavy iron bar which crossed the front of their cage, and then burst open the door. Smith was alone, and, not being familiar with the animals, he attempted to escape into an adjoining stable-yard. His situation was a frightful one, and most men would have acted precisely as he did under similar circumstances; but the probability is that if he had stood his ground boldly his life would have been saved. Unfortunately one of the lions—that which is known by the name of Havelock—caught sight of his retreating figure, and instantly sprang upon him. It seized him by the haunches, pulled him to the ground, and then fixed its teeth in his throat. Death must have been almost instantaneous, but, as Smith was found a good deal cut and bruised at the back of the head, it is supposed that the lion, after burying its fangs in his throat, dragged him about and dashed his head against the ground. It seems in fact to have worried him though the wounds indicted by the brute are neither so numerous nor so severe as might have been expected.—There were ne cries for help, but a sort of shuffling noise was heard by a man in the stable yard. He suspected what had occurred, and did not venture to open the door through which Smith had endeavored to escape, but he gave the alarm, and in a few minutes was joined by several grooms and others connected with the theater. They were all, however, too much afraid to enter the place, and nothing was done to ascertain the fate of Smith until the arrival of Crockett, the Lion Conqueror, to whom the animals belong. As soon as he reached the spot he passed through the toor alone, none of the others daring to follow.

The body of Smith was lying face upwarda few feet from the door, and Havelock was crouching over it as a bungry dog hangs over a piece of meet. Crockett immediately threw the animal off and dragged the body into the yard. It was still warm, but life had been extinct for some time.

still warm, but life had been extinct for some time.

A surgeon was sent for, but of course he could render no assistance. Croekett lost no time in securing the lions. They allowed him to capture them easily enough. Even Havelock did not offerany resistance, and the other two, which had taken no part in the terrible scene with Smith, seemed rather afraid than otherwise. In a few minutes all three were back in their cage again, and last night they went through their usual performances before a crowded audience.

Heroic Conflict with a Tigress in Liverpool.

Yesterday morning, whilst Maccomo was going through his performance with the Bengal tigers at Mander's Menageric, Shaw's-brow, a tigress caught his hand in her mouth. Never were coolness and nerve displayed to greater perfection by any man than were shown by Maccomo at this juncture, for, planting his knee in the small of the tigress's back and pressing her against the bars of the cage, then seizing her lower jaw with the right hand, he held her powerless to do more than retain the left hand in her mouth. So cool was Maccomo in this trying position that lookers on thought it part of his performance; but when Maccomo called to one of the keepers "She has got my hand fast in her mouth; get a bar of hot iron," the truth of his dangerous position flashed through the minds of those present, and created the greatest excitement—one lady fainting away, others running from the painful sight. Four or five minutes clasped before the iron was ready, during which ime Maccomo stood as a piece of statuary, not a quiver of lip to show the pain he was enduring. When ready, the hot iron was applied quickly and surely by one of the keepers to one of the large teeth in the upper jaw, and as though she had been electrified, her mouth sprang open. Maccomo, quick as lightning, drew his hand away, caught hold of a thick stick, struck the treacherous animat a terrific blow on the skull, brought her down, and forced her to fluish her performance before he left the cage. When Maccomo cane out of the cage, his bleeding hand testified to the frightful struggle which had been going on between man and beast. One gentleman present gave Maccomo 10s. as a mark of appreciation of the cool courage displayed. We cannot avoid expressing our dislike to see cool and dariag men placed hourly in such a position as must at last, is all probability, terminate fatally. Cotton—Hewett & Co. say demand is again large, and 20,000 bales changed hands, half on speculation and for export, but to-day awaiting the action of the Manchester market. There was less activity; sales being about 10,000 bales. Prices remain perfectly firm, and perhaps in some cases slightly dearer. Hewitt & Co. report their quations of Friday last.

A THIMP ATTEMPT TO ASSASSINATE A GENERAL—MANY PERSONS KILLED.—Undeterred by the failure of two previous atempts, a third attempt was made on the 22d of December to assassinate General Castilla, President of the Peruvian Republic, and to proclaim General Finuin Castillo in his place. At six in the morning of the above date, the President's house was surrounded by soldiers, commanded by Captain Eurique Lava. Some civilians, also, accompanied the party.

The guard at the door was shot dead and the conspirators made their way to the President's bed-room. He was fired at, but escaped unwonded to the street. The President's guards then rallied, and six persons fell in the brief flight that followed. The chief conspirator, Lara, made his eshourly in such a position as must at last, in all probability, terminate fatally. hourly in such a position as must at last, in all probability, terminate fatally.

"He's a feel, who thinks by force, or skill. To turn the current of a woman's will."

A modern version of the adventures of Falstaff and Mrs. Ford has just come to light in the records of the Chicago Police Court. An old sinner named Griffith induced a smart little woman named Griffith induced a smart little woman mamed Graft, and her husband, to emigrate from Pennsylvania to Minnesota. Grant managed assw mill for Griffith, but the speculation proved had, the mill burned down, and Grant found that he had lost money by coming West. Griffith presented the woman with a worthless deed to an eighty acre lot. Griffith then made a proposition to the woman to run away with him for the consideration of $500. The woman consented—but told her husbaud; the money was paid over, the woman furnished with clothing and a couple of nice trunks to keep the bed clothing and other family fixings in, and she started for La Crosse, where Griffith was to meet her. At the appointed time the aged Lothario left for La Crosse and found that the inconstant fair one—and her husband—had left for Chicago. Discovering the "sell," he telegraphed to Chicago and had Mrs. Grant arrested for grand larceny. The Police Judge heard the story, dismissed the case, and gave back to the woman her $500, her new clothing, and her nice trunks. As she left the court room Mrs. Grant remarked to her would-be seducer, "You told me it would be an awful sharp trick. Do you think it was very sharp:" persons left in the brief fight that followed. The chief conspirator, Lara, made his escape, and under the orders of Colonel Arguedas, who lives opposite to the President's house, the soldiers who had been led against the President quietly shot their own officers and a citizen who had accompanied they are the president of the p An American Hotel in London.—It is stated that Young American Train, (the successful proprietors of Trainways in Europe), in connection with Mark Lemon, [Punch.] Judge Hallburton, [Sam Slick,] and others has got up an associated company, with a capital of $3,000,000, for the purpose of building a great "American Hotel" in London. They have got possession of three acres of ground in the Strand, and are going shead like "bricks." In New York City, there are 253 churches, capable of seating 253,193 persons. The total value of church property is $11,518,400.

KEEP PINS OUT OF THE MOUTH.—As the oldest daughter of Mrs. Lemule Holmes was preparing for church on Sunday last, says the Janesville Republican, she threw back her head and asked her mother if her neek was cleau, and immediately fell down, crying, "A pin, a pin." She began to choke and grow black, and struggle as if she must die, while the pin, which she had held in her mouth, stuck fast in her windpipe. Drs. Chittenden and Lane were summond, and after a skillful operation, which lasted three hours, succeeded in opening the throat and extracting the dangerous intruder.

The analgamation of Languages.—There is a growing tendency in this age to appropriate the most expressive words of other languages, and after a while to incorporate them into Jurown: thus the word Cephalic, which is from the Greek, signifying "for the head." is now becoming popularized in connection with Mr. Spalding's great Headache remedy, but is will soon be used in a more general way, and the word Cephalic will become as common as Electrotype and many others whose distinction as foreign words has been worn away by common usage until they seem "native and to the manor born."
